The Democratic papers, says the New York Tribune, are so persistently misrepresenting the results of the election in Maine, that the facts must be set right before the country. The sole ground upon which they base their claims is, that while the Republican vote is increased only 691 over the September vote four years ago, the Democratic vote is increased 2.047. They entirely ignore the fact that four years ago the Republican party was at its best in Maine and the Democratic party in a state of apathy, while in this election the Democrats had sources of strength they never enjoyed before, and the Republicans might naturally have been expected not to do so well as they did in 1884. The amazing assertion is constantly made that the Democrats made no campaign in Maine this ear. This began with Chairman Brice's amusing telegram to Arthur Sewall: "We can now see that if our National committee had aided you, and undertaken to make a fight for your State, we could have made a substantial reduction in the Republican majority."
